

Who we are

Prepory is a premier college admissions counseling company that provides students across the globe with the strategy, know-how, and tools to navigate all facets of the college admissions process.

Expertise. Our team is made up of former admissions officers, former faculty, researchers, advanced degree holders, and graduates of the nation's best universities. In short, our team is more informed and accomplished than any other college admissions consultancy in the industry.

Relatability. Our coaches are easy to talk to, build sincere relationships, and set high expectations. We maintain a nurturing disposition, prioritize student engagement, and take personal pride in your success.

Trustworthiness. The college admissions process looks different for every student. No matter the circumstance, we ensure that no stone is left unturned and no deadline is missed. You can count on us to guide your child from where they are to the successful end of the college admissions process.

“My son and I interviewed about 15 different admission consulting companies before I ultimately decided on Prepory... We were given two committee reviews, which is where many different consultants read my son's application, alongside one-on-one time. I'm proud to say that the consulting worked. My son is now attending Brown, and, after seeing how many rounds of revision they went through, I can confidently say that he wouldn't have gotten to the Ivy League without Prepory and his counselor.

- Nancy C., son attending Brown University

Full-team support

Our College Admissions Coaches

Your Prepory coach is your main point of contact and the person you'll be meeting with from week to week to receive tailored support through every aspect of building your applications. Our coaches are trained annually irrespective of years of experience to stay abreast of the latest college admissions trends, changes, and data. Each Prepory coach is a member of the National Association for College Admissions Counseling (NACAC).

Writing Specialists

The Writing team is a point of escalation for students' written materials. For example, after you've gone through a few edits of your personal statement with your coach, they will share it with a Writing Specialist to receive a third-party, objective perspective on the narrative, syntax, structure, diction, and overarching message of the piece.

Interview Specialists

Our Interview Specialists are responsible for strengthening your interview skills through mock interview preparation. When you receive interview requests, the team will coordinate mock interviews with you. They will draft a report of your performance and record your interview to share it with your Prepory Coach to improve on it with you.

Mock Admissions Committee Team

This team collectively reviews each student's college application materials during our 11th-grade Profile Review. This team is composed of our most seasoned College Admissions Coaches, Lead Coaches, Writing Specialists, and the Program leadership team. This team includes former admissions officers from Cornell, Upenn, Harvard, Purdue, Duke, Washington University in St. Louis, UCLA, and UC Berkeley and boasts over 100+ years of collective experience in college admissions.

In addition to the institutions mentioned above, our team also comprises alumni from the following colleges and universities.
